SAMSON SHORN OF THEIR LOCKS

In a Modern Way, Means the Cutting Off of Our Good Talents

SAYS REV EARL WILFLEY

Beautiful Castles of Manhood Destroyed by Evil Passion and Appetites—Wasted Lives

The address at the Men's Big Meeting Sunday afternoon by Rev. Earle Wilfley, pastor of the Christian church of Crawfordsville, was one of the best of the series. A large and appreciative—almost enthusiastic—audience welcomed the speaker.

His address on "Shorn Samsons" grew in interest to his hearers as the speaker advanced in the presentation of his theme until each auditor seemed to feel himself alone in the presence of a master mind receiving a personal message on the great varieties of life.

Mr. Wilfley introduced his remarks with a review of the "Big Men's Meeting" if the nation saying: "This movement is as wide as our country in its extent. Men of ability are being called upon to address ten times as meetings as they have time to address. 'The interest in these meetings,' said the speaker, 'is one of the best indications of a better era.'

"These meetings show an interest of men in men and men in God, and when you have succeeded in interesting men in their fellowmen and in God you have solved a great problem and virtually saved the world.

"Like Samson of old, men are today being shorn of their strength. Samson, the great judge of Israel is the most pathetic of history. Delilah, the siren of the Philistines, made several attempts upon this stalwart young man of the Hebrew nation before she learned the secret of his great strength. When you defeat a woman she will always come up smiling. The American man, the Prince of all the ages, is just as open to the wiles of a wicked woman as was Samson.

"Profanity," said the speaker, "is another of the things by which manhood is shorn of its strength and beauty. To use the sacred name of Jesus or God in a vulgar way will result in a depravity of heart. Let me urge of you young men and old to use our mother tongue and splendid language for something better.

"Let fathers practice purity of speech before their children if they would have their children to be pure in heart and life." Just here Mr. Wilfley related a story of a father's correction of his little son that had been feeding quite heavily of the dainties of the table: "My son, you should not make a pig of yourself. Do you know what a pig is?" "Yes," said the youthful imitator, "a pig is a hog's little boy."

"Father I heard you say it," was the retort of another child when corrected for the use of vile language.

These deeds and words of ours are as seed sown in a virgin soil when they fall in the hearts of children.

"Dishonesty has shorn many a man of his strength. We want plain old fashioned honesty. Simple honesty whose dealings are as fair as God's; and that says, 'I will be honest though the heaven falls,' is what the world needs and is pleading for today. Let us have honest men in political, social and business life. Honesty is not only good policy, but it is God-like."

"The next evil that I shall mention is the drink evil. The government grants the right to sell liquor, therefore I shall not be too harsh on the saloon keeper. The hand writing is on the wall for the legalized saloon. Some men will drink and make hogs of themselves as long as the world stands, but the American political saloon is doomed. There is nothing good in its favor; all is evil. The thieveries, the robberies, the anarchical plots and things of a like nature are all given birth to in the back room of the upper room of the legalized saloon. All the industries of the country are demanding total abstinence. Across the burnished heavens is written the unmistakable demand for clear brains. "Fault finding is another great evil that is robbing men of their noblest manhood. Better to be a constructionist than destructionist.

This business of flaunting before the public eye all the filth and abominations of depraved manhood and womanhood, as is done by some newspapers, is a kind of muckraking that should receive our severest censure. President Roosevelt is not a muckraker because he demands that men shall be brought to light, that their evil deeds may be reformed.

"There is no comparison to be made between Roman civilization and our own. We are as far in advance of old Rome as our arts and science will indicate."

Mr. Wilfley closed his address with a most dramatic picture of the young man who builds the castles of manhood of the most costly and beautiful material that the world can furnish and then by his evil passions and appetites sets fire to the structure and watches it go up in flames. "Burning the entire structure to ashes he throws these in the face of God and says: 'Take these, the dregs of my wasted life.'"

MARY STARTED HANDICAPPED

New Englander Writes Interesting Story of Rush County
Bred Colt

Sired by Patchen Boy

Green Colt Circled Half Mile
Track Twice in 2:14 Behind
Crude Lay-out

When the Western Horseman published their souvenir number this year they had a feature article with a number of pictures, telling of the glory of Patchen Boy and his many good colts, and Dick Wilson & Son, the owners.

Inadvertently they overlooked the mention of one of the Patchen Boy's gets that promises to add much lustre to the black stallion's record as a producer, and in due time came a polite protest from the owner, a Mr. Richey, of New Haven, Conn., who is quite wealthy, and who engages in many matinee events.

He writes interestingly of his Patchen Boy colt, and tells a story worthy of repetition. She is called Mary Patchen and has a race record of 2:24 1/4. Last summer Mr. Richey had her entered in a race meeting to be held at a nearby city—some eight or ten miles distant—but on the day of the race he was detained on account of business from driving his entry over in the forenoon. After lunch, thinking he would at least drive over and see the races, he hitched Mary Patchen to a light road cart and started, and arrived just as the starting judge was ringing the bell for the entries of the race in which "Mary" was listed. A happy and desperate thought struck Mr. Richey, and acting on the impulse, he had the gate keeper swing open the track gate and he swung up the track at a merry gait, determined to drive the race without even changing for a bike sulky.

The result was most pleasing, and like all good stories end. Mr. Richey won the race. It was in the first heat, over a half mile track, mind you, that Mary got her track record, 2:24 1/4. She actually went the mile in 2:14, but the usual small track courtesy of hanging out a "high time" record was intended.

Mr. Richey says he is of the opinion that his colt can beat 2:10 on a good mile track and he is very anxious to enlist the services of Dick Wilson for the coming season to see that this result is accomplished.

Mr. Wilson says he is going to accomplish something this season that is unprecedented in the history of the horse world. He means to give ten Patchen Boy colts a record of 2:10 or better, and barring accident and sickness in his stable he says it is as good as done already, for he has the material and the speed.

IN COLORADO YOUNG MAN DIES

Larry Geraghty, a Popular and Promising Youth, Suc-
cumbs to Tuberculosis

DEATH CAME UNEXPECTED

As Family had Received Nothing
but Encouraging Reports—Deceased was an Athlete

The family and friends of Lawrence Geraghty, Jr., were surprised and deeply grieved to receive a message Sunday morning from Colorado Springs, Colorado, telling of his death. He had gone to that place a few months ago in quest of health, being a victim of tuberculosis, and until Saturday nothing but the best of reports were received from him, consequently the news of his death proved a shock.

Saturday night a report came that the young man was worse and his brother, John Geraghty, immediately started for the West, and will not know of his death until he arrives there this evening. The attending physician had sent nothing but optimistic news of his condition and the only inkling the family had that he might not be faring well was in a letter they received about ten days ago, signed "From an interested party," a lady who saw him and noted his serious condition, and she advised them to send for him.

Larry—as he was called by friends and acquaintances—was universally known and liked in this community.

He was an exceedingly bright boy and had good prospects for a brilliant future until the deadly germ of the white plague crept into his system and began to undermine his health. After graduating from the Rushville high school, with as many or more honors than any of the other graduates, a few years ago, on recommendation of Congressman Watson, he went in for a term of years at the West Point academy in New York. Passing both the mental and physical examination he was soon enjoying that enviable life at the nation's military school. While there he suffered his first attack of illness and after being in the hospital several weeks, coming out he failed in a second physical examination and he was obliged to give up the dream of ambitious youth. It was a crushing blow to the young fellow and he felt it until the time of his death.

It is not at all improbable that the indirect cause of his death came from a contest on the football field. For one of his age he always possessed great strength, being large of frame, brawn and muscle. He was an enthusiastic lover of sports and during the last years of his high school life, figured in many hot gridiron contests and base ball games, as he was proficient in both, and it was after he sustained an injury in a football contest that he suffered the first day of illness since he grew to boyhood.

Deceased had a wide acquaintance in the surrounding cities and no end of friends, for on every field where he engaged in a contest, he was remembered as "the fellow who made such a protest" when a close decision was in question, so devoted and enthusiastic was he in all things which he had a hand in.

Only last Saturday, John Geraghty, a returned school superintendent from the Philippines, who has been teaching at Locust Grove school in this county, resigned and was going to leave for New Mexico Wednesday to teach an Indian school. He was making the change that he might take his brother to that climate where they would live in a tent this summer.

Besides a father and mother, four brothers, James, John and George, of this city, and Thomas F., of Spokane, Washington, and four sisters, Mayme, Anna, Irene and Esther, survive.

Deceased was a member of the local Knights of Columbus, who will attend the funeral in a body. He was twenty-one years of age. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

THE WOMAN IN THE CASE

On Account of Milady in Politics
Being an Innovation, County
Chairman Retires

The Prohibitionists of Rush county met today in convention with Old Glory unfurled and floating from the windows of the court house and a woman in the chair.

Owing to the fact that women in politics is somewhat new in Indiana, Alva Swain was elected chairman in Mrs. Leonard's stead.

The convention proper opened with prayer and with Mr. Swain in the chair proceeded to the business of the day, which consisted of reports of the county and township chairmen.

Mrs. Leonard's report as county chairman told of much personal work done, and more than letters written in the interest of Prohibition.

The following were chosen for the offices on the Prohibition county ticket:

Representative, Evert E. Worth, of Posey township; Auditor, Willet L. Hall, of Union township; Clerk, John E. Booth, of Anderson township; Sheriff, Barton Miller, of Walker township; Coroner, Isaac Smith, of Posey township; Surveyor, Walter Lord, of Center township; Commissioner of the Northern district, Owen S. Henley, of Carthage; Commissioner of Middle district, Wm. Alexander.

The chairman and secretary of the convention were chosen to confer with the other county committee for the selection of a Joint-Senator. One delegate from each township and two from Posey township, were chosen to represent Rush county at the State convention.

Taking it all in all today's gathering of Rush county Prohibitionists was the most joyous assemblage that the assembly room has accommodated for some time.

Michael J. Fanning, the "Prohi Cyclone" addressed the convention this afternoon.

J. MILT STIERS WILL VOTE FOR THE PREACHER

J. Milt Stiers was named as a delegate Saturday to the Democratic State convention. Mark Pursell, his opponent for the place was named as his alternate. Stiers is instructed to support Rev. T. H. Kuhn for Governor or our own Frank J. Hall for the second place on the ticket.

CANDIDATE FOR THE KANSAS SENATE

Lon Sexton Cambern, Former Rushville Citizen, Seeking Political Honors in the West

Lon Sexton Cambern, a product of Rushville, and a brother of Attorney Claude Cambern, of this city, who removed to Erie Kansas, when a young man, has been heard from in the political field. Last week he announced himself a candidate for the State Senate and the Erie Record says of his candidacy in part as follows:

"Mr. Cambern is able to give this district distinguished service in the Kansas State senate. He has made a success of his own business and knows a business proposition when he sees it. He is big enough for the job. For the past thirty years the party in this county has had the assistance of Lon Cambern in every campaign. He has worked unselfishly for the success of the ticket and his work has always counted. He has the confidence and good will of the people.

"Men of this class are not always available for legislative positions and the Republicans should see to it that Mr. Cambern is nominated at the primary and elected at the polls."

RILEY HUNT IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE T. P. A.

Riley Hunt, formerly of Orange, near the Rush-Fayette county lines, and one of the most popular traveling men in the State, was Saturday elected president of the T. P. A. of Indiana. Mr. Hunt travels for an Indianapolis wholesale hardware firm.

COTTON A CRITIC OF HIGH SCHOOL

Teachers are too Often too
Young and Inexperienced
College Graduates

DECLINE IN ENROLLMENT

Curriculum Should be Flexible
so Pupils Could Avoid Latin if They Pleased

In a bulletin entitled "Facts, Fallacies and Fancels," just issued by Fessett A. Cotton, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, the high school system is criticized, the plan of co-educational schools is questioned and a plea is made for strong men as teachers in the grammar grades and high schools.

Mr. Cotton gives several reasons why there is a decline in the enrollment of pupils in the first year high school. Among other things he declares that the high school course is not sufficiently flexible. The rule requiring all pupils to take Latin has kept many boys out of the high school, he says, and the rule requiring all pupils to carry mathematics has caused many girls to give up high school altogether. Mr. Cotton predicts that this condition finally will result in a demand for a course of study which will permit such pupils to complete their education. It is pointed out, also that there are not convenient high school facilities in the different townships of the State.

Accounting for the difference of 5778 in enrollment between the first and second high schools, Mr. Cotton criticizes methods of teaching. He declares that poor teaching is one of the sure causes of decrease in enrollment toward the final years of high school.

The high school teachers, Mr. Cotton says, are too often young, inexperienced college graduates who have no serious intention of teaching school. They are not even good instructors because they do not know their subjects from the teachers' point of view, he declares.

GOES TO TAKE CHARGE OF MAGNATE'S STOCK FARM

Frank O. Walker and family, of North Oliver street, today removed to Barrington, Illinois, near Chicago, where Mr. Walker will take charge of the large stock farm owned by Harry Miller, a railroad magnate.

THE WEATHER

Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

FORTY DAYS OF LENT TO BEGIN

But Two More Days of Feasting, Then Comes Siege of Fasting

FORECAST OF THE RULES

Sacred Season and Time of Repentance Will Start on Ash Wednesday

Lent begins next Wednesday. The first feast is significant of the forty days' fast of Christ in the desert. During Lent, devout Catholics, Episcopalians and some members of other creeds, spend much of their time repenting for past sins and fast from Ash Wednesday to Easter Sunday. On Ash Wednesday in the Catholic church the faithful repair to the altar where the sign of the cross, the ashes from burned palm is placed upon their forehead in the sign of the cross, the priest repeating the words, "Remember, O man, thou art but dust, and unto dust thou shalt return."

Wednesday, Friday and Saturday are the days of abstinence. On the other days of the week flesh is allowed at one meal, preferably at the noon repast. Only one full meal a day is allowed. On Sunday the fast is not compulsory, nor is the abstinence. Fish and flesh are never allowed at the same meal.

Special weekly services will be held at St. Mary's Catholic church here in the mornings after mass at which repentance sermons will be the principal events. On Friday evenings the "stations" or "way of the cross" will be held. This service consists of the marching of the priest and altar boys about the church, pausing before each of the fourteen scenes depicting Christ's journey to Calvary, and reciting a prayer before each.

HALL HAS A GOOD STARTER AT HOME

Popular Rushville Attorney, with Sixth District Behind him, Leads the Hounds

The Sunday Indianapolis Star says: "Frank J. Hall, of Rushville, is making a thorough canvass of the State in his efforts to be chosen by the Democratic convention as the nominee for Lieutenant Governor, and as a starter he has the Sixth District solidly and enthusiastically behind him. Mr. Hall has long been a worker in the party ranks and he is one of the original Bryan men in Indiana. His only opponent for the office he seeks is Frank E. Hering, of South Bend."

FAMOUS BASEBALL TWIRLER WAS HERE

Bob Ewing, of the Cincinnati
Reds, Came to See his Race
Horses

Bob Ewing, who is known by every baseball follower in the United States, and who is considered one of the best twirlers on the Cincinnati league team, spent Sunday the guest of Harry Jones in this city. Jones trains and races two of Ewing's horses, and both expect big things of the racers this coming season.

ALL THREE DENY IT

Men Indicted on Bribery Charges
Say They Know Nothing About It.

MARION COUNTY CASES

Investigation of Alleged Rottenness
In Court House Leads to Three Conspicuous Arrests.

Commissioner McGregor, Ex-Commissioner Spafford and a Salesman Held to Answer.

Indianapolis, March 2.—John Mc-Gregor, president of the board of county commissioners; Thomas E. Spafford, a former member of that body,
and Arthur W. Willcuts, city salesman for the Atlas Engine Works, were indicted by the Marion county grand jury and arrested. The arrests grow out of bribery charges. The men were released on heavy bond.

The specific charges against Mc-Gregor are that he accepted a bribe of $3,800 from Willcuts in April or May, 1907; that he solicited this bribe and that he and Spafford, who had retired from the board of county commissioners
Dec. 31, 1906, and Willcuts, conspired to bribe John McGaughey, then a member of the board.

Willcuts is charged along with Mc-Gregor and Spafford in one of the three indictments with conspiracy to bribe McGaughey, and he is charged in another indictment with offering this bribe to McGaughey, and with bribing McGregor.

While there is a separate indictment in addition to the joint indictment against both McGaughey and Willcuts, Spafford is indicted in the joint indictment alone, being charged with conspiracy with the other two men to bribe McGaughey.

McGaughey declared he had not been approached by any of the three men; that no proposition had ever been made to him by them or by anyone, and that he knew absolutely nothing about the case. Spafford, Willcuts and McGaughey disclaimed all knowledge of any bribe, and denied they had conspired to bribe McGaughey. The whole situation was a puzzle to them,
they declared.

The charge grows out of the purchase by the county of new boilers
and equipment from the engine concern for the county power plant in April, 1907. The county paid the concern $21,331 for the boilers, and the charge is that $3,800 was paid to Mc-Gregor out of the first money which was paid on the contract for the boilers.

ASKS MINERS TO RETURN

Failure of Joint Conference Necessitates Further Meeting.

Indianapolis, March 2.—The official
call of the officers of the United Mine Workers of America to the men in the mines asking them to reconvene in Indianapolis on March 12 has been issued from the headquarters of the mine workers' organization in this city.

The call was signed by President
John Mitchell and Secretary W. B.
Wilson. The call is brief. It informs the miners that the conference held in Indianapolis last week between operator and miners failed to agree as to a wage convention, and asks the miners to reconvene for the purpose of taking action regarding the attitude of the operators. Secretary Wilson said last night that the convention would be held in Tomlinson hall if the call
can be obtained on the date mentioned.

Searching for Houseboat.

Vincennes, Ind., March 2.—Mike Rich, aged forty-eight, foreman for the Black Hawk Light, Heat and Power company, was found dead and almost decapitated by workmen of the Citizens' Gas company. Bloodhounds hurried to the dead body, took the trail to the Wabash river front, 250 yards away, where Rich's hat and overcoat were found. It developed that the murder was committed in a houseboat, and that one houseboat had dropped down the river. Sheriff Westfall and Superintendent of Police Krusse have notified towns below to stop all boats. Everything suggests cold-blooded murder, although Rich's
watch is missing.

Young Defender Held Blameless.

South Bend, Ind., March 2.—Stephen Biro, fifteen years old, who shot and killed his sister's husband, Louis F.
Torok, twenty-six years old, after the husband had shot three times at his wife, has been exonerated and set at liberty. Torok insisted that his wife, who had given birth to a child in the week, should get out of bed and wash
milk bottles, that he might have them on his milk route. The mother of the young woman remonstrated with Torok,
and he began using his revolver,
whereat young Biro took a hand and shot and killed his brother-in-law.

The Mother Was Absent.

Frankfort, Ind., March 2.—Russell,
the three-year-old son of Mrs. Albert Woods of Schererville, was fatally burned. The boy threw a can of coal oil on a fire and the flames communicated with his clothing. At the time the mother was away from home, having left the boy in bed asleep.

BIG BLAZE AT TAMPA

Fire in Cigar Factory District Causes $600,000 Loss.

Tampa, Fla., March 2.—The entire extreme northern section of this city was destroyed by fire which broke out in a boarding house early Sunday and ragged uninterruptedly for four hours.
The area burned covered fifty-five acres or eighteen and one-half city blocks, and 308 buildings were destroyed, with a total loss estimated at $600,000, and one woman is dead from excitement.

The burned section included four large and one smaller cigar factory
and numerous restaurants, saloons, boarding houses and over 200 dwellings occupied by cigarmakers. The factories burned were M. Stachelberg & Co., loss $100,000; M. Perez & Co., loss $50,000; Gonzales Fisher & Co.,
loss $40,000; Esberg, Gunst & Co., a branch of Stachelberg, loss $40,000;
Fernandez & Bro., loss $20,000.

All factories carried large stocks of tobacco and cigars. The area swept by fire embraced all that portion of the city between Twelfth and Michigan avenues and Sixteenth and Twentieth streets. It originated in the boarding house of Antonio Diaz, 1714 Twelfth avenue, and, fanned by a strong wind, spread rapidly, defying
the efforts of the fire department,
which was crippled by very weak water pressure, to check it. Occupants of over 200 dwelling houses, thrown into a panic, rushed out, attempting to save but little of their belongings. A Cuban woman in a delicate condition dropped dead from the shock, her body
being rescued from the burning house with difficulty. Fire Chief Savage was overcome by heat and smoke early in the fire, but recovered. Citizens volunteered assistance to the hard-working firemen, but the spread of the flames was so rapid that little effectual work could be done.

Among buildings other than factories destroyed were the hotels and cafes of Perez and Castro and Maximo Caras, six saloons, twelve restaurants and ten boarding houses. The car barns of the Tampa Electric company, containing twenty cars, was endangered and, owing to the destruction of trolley wires, cars could not be moved.
The fire finally burned itself out at the northern section of the city.

Fully half the people rendered homeless were out of work and their shelter became an immediate problem. St.
Joseph's convent was opened to them
by order of the Jesuit fathers, and many found lodgings there, while others were accommodated in homes throughout the city. Besides these,
thousands of men will be out of work
on account of the burning of the factories. The insurance is estimated at not more than half of the loss.

The state militia was placed on guard in the burned district to prevent depredations.

UNEXPECTED DEATH

Andrew Hamilton, Noted as Insurance
Lawyer, Found Dead in Bed.

Albany, N. Y., March 2.—Andrew Hamilton, formerly counsel to the New York Life and other insurance companies, and in charge for many years of insurance litigation and legislative matters in all parts of this country

ANDREW HAMILTON.

and Canada, was found dead in bed Sunday morning at his home in this city. He was about the city Saturday afternoon and night, apparently in normal health, and his death was entirely unexpected, although he has been failing to some extent ever since the death of Mrs. Hamilton last July. An autopsy disclosed an acute dilation of the heart, which must have caused practically instantaneous death at some time during the night.

Brewers Put Up a Roar.

London, March 2.—Seldom has the promise of legislation worked such havoc with trade as has the licensing
bill with the brewing interests. Stocks in all the breweries, including the foremost companies, have gone down to amazingly low rates, until they cannot be sold at any price. The shrinkage in the nominal value of brewing properties is estimated at about $250,000.
The stocks in the leading companies have fallen as much as 50 per cent in two days. Naturally there is a panic among the brewers and they are sending up a strong outcry against the bill.

Death in the Engine Room.

Chicago, March 2.—While visiting John Reuter, engineer of a brewing company, Fortieth street and Emerald avenue, in the engine room of the plant Sunday, Charles Schrandt and Emil DeGraat were killed by the bursting of a pipe filled with ammonia.
Reuter escaped by crawling through an open door.

CAN NOT LAST LONG

Return of Prosperity Will Be as Sudden as Coming of Adversity.

VIEWS OF THE RAILROADS

Testimony of Men Who Know Points
to a Speedy Revival of Recently Depressed Business Conditions.

Some Changes That Will Be Necessary
In Complying With Provisions of Nine-Hour Law.

Washington, March 2.—American railways have made arrangements to comply with the provisions of the nine-hour law. The operation of the law will mean the employment by railroad companies of several thousand additional operators and the closing of a large number of small stations on the principal systems. Discontinuing of railway service at many points, it is thought, will induce at least temporary inconvenience to the travelling and shipping public in order to reduce operating expenses, which now seems necessary. The operating officials of the railways believe that this is the only way that they possibly can meet the situation with which they are confronted.

During the hearing of applications
for an extension of the nine-hour law
by the interstate commerce commission, some astonishing statements were made by the operating officials of important railways. A good many lines, owing to a reduction in their revenues and to their inability to command the cash necessary to meet their pay-rolls, have been forced during the past four months almost to the point of asking for receivers. In the opinion of railway officials this conditions does not seem to have been due to the enforcement of regulative laws or to the inefficiency of railway management.

Most of the railway officials attribute
the difficulty to the unfortunate banking situation which developed last September. The railways did not feel the stringency in money until about the first of November. In fact, the month of October was one of the best in the history of the business of American railroading. "Then, without the slightest warning," H. U. Mudge, vice president and general manager of the Rock Island system, expressed it, "we were plunged from prosperity to adversity. A year ago our system could not handle the traffic offered us. Today we have 11,000 idle cars. Five months ago we suffered from a congestion of freight, now we suffer from a congestion of empty cars."

What is true of the Rock Island is said to be true also of scores of other railroads. One railway official ventured the statement that in the country today there were 300,000 idle freight cars, and one line which he instantly was declared to be hauling empty cars backward and forward because it had not yard room or sidings
to accommodate them.

Not a single official of a single railway line who appeared before the commission, however, expressed the belief that the present industrial depression would be lasting. In the testimony of nearly every witness before the commission there was a note of confidence
because nearly every one of them practically believed that the stringency in the money market from which the country has suffered is not due to fundamental causes.

They practically uniformly predict that the return of prosperity will be almost as sudden as was the coming of adversity, and in their arguments
as to the enforcement of the nine-hour law they pointed out to the commission that such a return of prosperity might seriously embarrass them in complying with the law, because it would render it difficult to command
the services of competent operators in sufficient numbers to meet the needs of prosperous conditions.

With four or five exceptions, no important railroads in the country have indicated an intention to reduce the wages of their employees. As Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission expressed it:

"So far as I am informed there is no
concerted action on the part of American railway companies to reduce wages. Instances of an intention to change the scale of wages have been given, but they can be said to be in no sense general."

A $2,500,000 Fire Loss.

New York, March 2.—Two fires that brought out all the fire apparatus in the upper section of the city and raged in lively fashion from midnight until dawn Sunday burned down the car
barns of the New York City Railway company on Second avenue in Harlem
and the paint factory of George W.
Grote & Co., only a few blocks distant.
There were 740 surface cars burned in the destruction of the barns, and the loss to the company is estimated at $2,500,000. The loss on the paint factory is given as $125,000.

Shot Father in Mother's Defense.

New York, March 2.—While defending his mother in a bitter family quarrel, Constantine Pellegrino, eighteen years old, shot and killed his father, Angelo Pellegrino, last night, at their home in Brooklyn. The boy was arrested.

GOVERNOR HARRIS

Will Be Indorsed by Ohio Republicans
in State Convention.

Columbus, O., March 2.—The Republican state convention which will meet here tomorrow will declare for revision of the tariff if present plans are carried out. The platform is already formulated, but it is of course entirely possible that many changes may be made in it before final adoption by the convention. The present understanding is, however, that the convention will be for a revision of the tariff along protective lines at a special meeting of the next congress.

The policies of President Roosevelt will be upheld and Taft will be endorsed. The convention will name candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, auditor of state, dairy and food commissioner, attorney general,
commissioner of public works (two),
judges of the supreme court (two),
clerk of the supreme court and four delegates-at-large to the Republican national committee. Governor Andrew L. Harris will be nominated by acclamation, as will, in all probability, the present secretary of state, Carmel A.
Thompson. For lieutenant governor
there are five candidates; for auditor,
two; for attorney general, four; for treasurer, six.

GUARDED PRIESTS

Fears at Chicago of Repetition of Denver Tragedy Causes Precautions.

ANTI-CLERICAL FEELING

Known to Exist Among Italians and Bohemians in Chicago Causes Priests to Take No Chances.

Guards in Citizens Clothes Scrutinized Every Person Who Entered the Churches.

Chicago, March 2.—Details of police were stationed during early mass in a number of Roman Catholic churches here Sunday because of threats against the lives of priests in letters received since the Denver tragedy. The guards, who were in citizens' clothing, scrutinized every person who entered the churches where trouble was feared, and after the services they occupied posts close to the altar. Special precautions were taken in Italian churches in all parts of the city and in several Bohemian churches because of anti-clerical feeling known to exist among persons of those nationalities in Chicago.

Less attention was paid to the large cathedrals, because of the number of police always in attendance at services in them. No disturbances were reported at any of the churches.

Funeral of Murdered Priest.

Paterson, N. J., March 2.—Ten thousand persons Sunday looked upon the face of Rev. Father Leo Heinrichs, O. F. M., at St. Bonaventura monastery, in which the murdered Denver priest was for years the pastor. The body lay in state from noon until 11 o'clock at night and during the nine hours an unbroken procession of mourners passed the bier. The funeral was held this morning, when solemn requiem mass was sung by Rev. Father Edward Blecke, assisted by the forty or more monks and lay brothers in St. Bonaventura's monastery. Bishop John J. O'Connor of the Roman Catholic diocese of Newark and a number of other high church dignitaries were present. Interment was made in the plot of the Franciscan monks in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

PUT DOWN REBELLION

Mutinous British Subjects in India Feel the Strong Hand.

Calcutta, March 2.—The British expedition under Major General Sir Jas. Willcocks, which has been engaged in the Bazar valley in punishing Zakkakheh, a powerful tribe of Afridis, has come to an end. The troops have vacated the Bazar valley and are expected to reach Peshawar soon. More than 300 high tribesmen petitioned the British government to spare the Zakkakheh, promising to punish the offenders in the recent raids, because of which the government sent out its punitive expedition.

The tribesmen already have suffered severely, for in a remarkably short campaign they have been scattered and broken; their forts have been destroyed and many of them have been killed. They have now made the fullest submission and General Willcocks has accepted the terms on behalf of the government.

West Virginia Strikes Gold.

New Cumberland, W. Va., March 2.—The eastern section of Hancock county, near Arroya, adjoining the Pennsylvania state line, is in a state of excitement over an alleged rich gold find. The Sawmill Run Oil company is drilling an oil well on the Miss Virginia Brown farm at Arroya, and when from a depth of 200 feet the bailer was brought up it was found to contain a solid substance in which the glint of gold was seen. The substance proved to be gold ore, and the small quantity brought up by the bailer was declared to be worth $7.50, or at the rate of $7,000 per ton.

Overturned Gravestones.

New London, Mo., March 2.—Wm. Leonard, H. Mosely and Joseph Epi son, three young farmers, were arrested at their homes near Salem cemetery, seven miles southwest of here, charged with having overturned more than a hundred gravestones in the cemetery and with breaking into a nearby schoolhouse and burning the books. The desecration of the cemetery and destruction of school property occurred Friday night.

Died With His Boots On.

El Paso, Tex., March 2.—Patrick Garrett, known the country over as the man who killed "Billy the Kid," the noted outlaw, and one of the last of the most prominent gun men of frontier day, was shot and killed by J. Wayne Brazill, a youthful ranchman, near Las Cruces, N. M., in a dispute over a ranch lease.

Murdered While He Slept.

Clinton, Ia., March 2.—Fred Dolph, twenty-seven years of age, was murdered Saturday night while he slept. His head was blown off by a shotgun. The wife of the murdered man is under arrest.

PLEA TO SAVE REDWOODS.

Young Californians Want National Park to Preserve Giant Trees.

One of the most unusual petitions ever sent to Uncle Sam is one which has been received at Washington by the forest service from nearly 1,400 California school children, who ask for the establishment of a redwood national park. This petition, which is from the children of the schools of Eureka, Humboldt county, Cal., is unlike any other which has ever been sent to a government department to ask for the preservation of forests, says a forest service bulletin. In the petition the children say:

"We, the children of Eureka schools, have been studying about our redwood forests, and, along with the rest of the people of our country, we feel that representative groves of these trees should be preserved for ourselves and coming generations of children, and we respectfully petition the United States government to take some action toward establishing a national forest of redwoods."

Government foresters who are acquainted with this section of California say that the children give good reasons for the establishment of the national park. It has been only a few years since the redwood trees stood thick on the land around the larger towns of Humboldt county, but now all the readily accessible timber has been removed, and the people see the time when the redwood groves will have disappeared.

There is little if any redwood left suitable for a national park that has not fallen into private hands. The acquisition of any such areas, therefore, would have to be brought about through private donation. If it is found necessary to purchase the land for the park, congressional action will be required.

The children do not specify any particular grove of trees which they should like created a national park. It will therefore be necessary for the people of Humboldt county to locate a suitable grove of redwood to be made a national park, make arrangements for the purchase of the tract and then request congress to take up the matter. The forest service will be able to do nothing more than to supply all possible information and assistance. The chief inspector at San Francisco will be requested to look into the matter and assist those interested in the movement in every way.

M'ADOO TUNNEL TRIP.

John Bigelow Moved to Sentiment on Journey Under Hudson River.

Ninety-one years old, but heartier than many of the younger men on the train, John Bigelow, distinguished statesman, author and historian, made the first official trip from Manhattan to New Jersey through the McAdoo tunnels. While the train was speeding from fifty to seventy feet beneath the bosom of the Hudson river he dictated the following statement:

"For the greatest joys of my whole life I am indebted to the Hudson river. I was born on its banks, I have sailed on its waters in dories and on cakes of ice, I have drunk it, I have swum in it and have skated on its frozen bosom. It is responsible to me directly and indirectly for the greatest pleasures of my youth.

"But if in the wildest fever of my imagination I should have thought of having the enjoyment of crossing under the river I should certainly have been pronounced a lunatic. Today I have crossed in that way. It has been a new and different pleasure, and it is the one of which as a citizen of New York and an American I am most proud. The speeches were in good taste. They were necessarily brief, but there was a frank expression of the very paramount sentiment of the occasion."

BLAST FOR RICH WEDDINGS.

Respect Due the Church Lacking, Says Pittsburg Pastor.

Ministers in Pittsburg have started a crusade against fashionable church weddings. Leading the revolt is the Rev. Dr. J. H. McIlvaine, pastor of Calvary Episcopal church, who in 1902 married Alice Thaw to the Earl of Yarmouth. He delivered a sermon recently that has stirred every ministerial association to action.

He said weddings of the day in Pittsburg were arranged and carried out by the florists, the same as funerals are handled by the undertakers.

"The sacred respect due the church is not present at these weddings," said the minister, "and the clergyman comes to be a mere nothing, necessary, of course, but sandwiched in in any old place. The slowest music is played, often that from operas, as the bridal party marches up the aisle. This gives the guests a longer time to look at the bride's dress, and to do it they even stand up on their seats."

Most of the ministerial associations at a recent meeting indorsed the views of Mr. McIlvaine.

A Firecracker Minus Powder.

A Fourth of July without a burned finger—that is the idea of Martin Armstrong, a telegraph operator of Eubanks, Okla. He has patented an explosive toy called the air cracker. It consists of a rubber cup, the top of which is held by a spring just beneath a metal ring. A handle is attached. Between the cup and tight fitting, flat ring a piece of paper is placed. When struck against any object the rubber forces air violently against the paper. The bursting of the paper causes an explosion minus the fire.

THE TOKYO FAIR.

Big Exhibition to Show the Progress of Japan.

The grand exhibition of Japan will be opened at Tokyo on the 1st of April, 1912, and will be closed on the 31st of October of that year.

All foreign governments and peoples are invited to participate. For the installment of foreign exhibits belonging to the five departments of education, science, machinery, electricity and manufactures space will be provided in the exhibition buildings erected by the administrative office of the exhibition. For exhibits other than those above designated any nation may erect a separate building at its own expense. No charge will be made for space allotted for such building. If they so desire, any foreign nation may exhibit articles belonging to the five departments named in its own building.

All exhibits, building materials, decorations, etc., will be admitted free of duty if not used for commercial purposes. Special arrangements as to duty will be made on articles for sale at bazaars or for amusements in the exhibition. Special protection by law will be afforded to all inventions, designs, models of utility and trademarks of foreign exhibits.

The exhibition grounds will cover a total area of from 272 to 290 acres. For this 124 acres of the Aoyama parade ground will be used, 132 acres of Yoyogi Imperial land and the remainder from Kitamachi Aoyama. A road about 480 feet in width will be built connecting the Aoyama parade ground and the Imperial property.

The exhibition is to be held not for the purpose of commemorating any historical event, but to show to the world the development and progress of Japan. The government has planned to spend $5,000,000 from the national treasury, and it is expected that the various provinces and municipalities will appropriate $5,000,000 more to the exhibition. The city of Tokyo will contribute $2,500,000 as its share.

Seven Assassination Conspirators, Including Three Women, Hanged.

St. Petersburg, March 2.—The seven terrorists who were condemned to death by a courtmartial for complicity in a plot against the lives of Grand Duke Nicholas and M. Tcheglovitoff, minister of justice, and whose sentence was confirmed by General Hazenkampf, chief of the general staff, were hanged at daybreak Sunday at Lissyloss, opposite Kronstadt. Among those who suffered death was Calvino the supposed Italian, who had in his possession when arrested a passport issued to the real Calvino, the St. Petersburg correspondent of two Italian papers, and three women, two of whom were eighteen and nineteen years of age, respectively.

Preferred Shooting to Drowning.

Dedham, Mass., March 2.—Chasing a boy named John Cross, with whom he had quarreled and at whom he had fired several shots from a revolver, while both were on the ice of the Charles river, Raffaello Calibrese, aged twenty-two years, fell into the river and immediately fired a shot into his own head, dying almost instantly. It is believed that the Italian youth thought he was going to drown, although the water where he fell in was but two or three feet deep.

RUSHVILLE, INDIANA, FEBRUARY 29, 1908

While Watson is decidedly in the lead so far, it will be possible to get a better line on the situation by the end of this week, as over half of the delegates will be selected during this week.

George B. Harris, Democratic chairman of Wayne county, has announced himself a candidate for State Statistician, and it is thought that this may injure the chances of the Rev. Kuhn in his race for governor.

The Beckham machine in Kentucky is crushed beyond repair and none will rejoice thereat more than will the better class of Kentuckians. Republicans are, of course, the big political gainers, as the election of Governor Bradley gives them a United States Senator from a source they least expected, although a fighting chance was theirs since the last election.

While it appears that the majority of the Democrats, especially those in the West and Middle West are for Bryan, yet some of the leading Democratic papers think that he is not out of danger of being run over and disabled by the initiative and referendum monster, or being disabled by his views on Government ownership.

Luther Burbank, the California botanist and fruit specialist, states that he is working on the development of a species of banana, which can be grown in the temperate zone—that is, in most any part of the United States. This banana will be derived from the tropical species, but adapted to local climate. If Mr. Burbank succeeds in this, it will be one of his greatest achievements, and one of the greatest benefits to this country.

Present indication are that the wind has been taken from the sails of the so-called labor movement against Watson. Edgar Perkins and other Democratic labor leaders, who started the hue and cry against Watson's record, are keeping up a desultory fire, but it is not having much effect. Perkins and his Democratic associates made the same sort of attack against Governor Hanly three and a half years ago, but he was easily nominated on the first ballot and elected by the largest majority ever given a Republican candidate for Governor in Indiana.

Here in the United States we are accustomed to regard the Mississippi as one of the greatest rivers of the world, and if that bluff don't work, the mention of the Amazon river of South America certainly will. However, the Yangtze Kiang in China, being navigable to warships for a distance of some 1500 miles, is easily the largest river in the world. It is stated that the American minister to China, W. J. Rockhill, will make a visit to the interior of China aboard an American man-of-war and his vessel will be escorted by one or more American warships. Such a journey of American war vessels 1500 miles inland would not be possible on any other river in the world. Another fact may cause surprise, and that is that the country inhabited by the "heathen Chinee" is the finest and most fruitful in the world—a veritable garden spot.

The Huntington Herald, speaking of the gubernatorial situation, says: "Reports of the selection of State delegates from over Indiana indicate at the present time that Mr. Watson has secured a larger number of them than any other candidate. In fact, indications are that he has at this time pretty nearly as many as all the others put together. Probably a large share of this predominance of Mr. Watson is due to the dirty attack that has been made on him in the effort to besmirch his legislation record. About the safest way to establish a standing for a man in the Republican party is to encourage the Democrats and so called Independents to begin their usual campaign against him. "The Herald is not particularly favorable to Mr. Watson. Mr. Taylor and both the Millers are men for whom a great deal can be said in advocacy of their candidacy, but he point of attack of the opposition press at the present time seems to be Watson, and if it keeps up as vigorously next month as it has the last month, Mr. Watson's nomination is practically assured."

INDIANA POLITICS

BY ROBERT J. TUCKER

Indianapolis, Ind., March 2.—The Republican leaders in the Fifth are elated over the result of their convention. It was feared by them that the hard fight between Howard Maxwell of Rockville and Otis Gully of Danville for delegates would cause a bad division in the party, but Gully and his friends are showing a disposition to line up with the winner and do whatever they can to help him. Charles B. Landis of Delphi will be renominated for congress at Frankfort, Thursday, by the Republicans of the Ninth district. It is not likely that any other name will be presented, although B. F. Harness of Kokomo and A. R. Tucker of Noblesville, are supposed to be candidates. The Democrats of the Fifth district will probably nominate Senator Ralph Moss of Clay for congress. No one else is mentioned by the Democrats for the place. Senator Moss was a member of the last two sessions of the legislature, where he served with much credit to himself. He is regarded as one of the strongest men in the district, although he has not been mixed up in state politics.

As an echo of the split in the American Society of Equity at its national convention in this city last fall comes the announcement from Princeton, Ind., that Charles A. Speer, editor of the Fort Branch Herald has been arrested on charges of criminal libel preferred by James A. Everitt of this city, former president of the Society of Equity. Speer was one of the men instrumental in overthrowing Mr. Everitt as president. Mr. Everitt admitted last night that he had caused Speer's arrest. He said that he went to Princeton about a week ago and appeared before the grand jury. Speer used his paper in the interest of the Society of Equity and Mr. Everitt charges that in November last and twice since that time he published articles regarding him that were of libelous character.

Only twenty-four of the twenty-six delegates to the Republican national convention were instructed to support Vice President Fairbanks, although reports were sent out that the entire delegation was instructed. The two from the Fourth district were not pledged to vote for the vice president, but they will be included when the entire delegation is instructed at the state convention. The fact that the Fourth district did not instruct as the others did has not been made public before, although there has been some quiet gossip about it among Republican leaders. The district leaders say emphatically that no harm was meant to the vice president's candidacy and that they intended to instruct, but they adjourned in a hurry and neglected to do so.

Local Republican politicians are interested in a report from New York today that Timothy L. Woodruff, chairman of the Republican state committee, has drafted resolutions indorsing Governor Hughes for the presidential nomination, which he will introduce at the meeting of the Republican state committee on Saturday. The resolutions will also contain an indorsement of the administration of President Roosevelt. In addition to indorsing Governor Hughes's nomination, the resolutions, it is understood, will pledge the support of the state committee and express the opinion that the delegates to the national convention should be instructed for Hughes.

Realty dealers report that last week was a quiet one for them. Inquiries were not numerous and deals were rare. Prospective buyers are holding off, it is explained, for a drop in prices, just as they have been holding off since Jan. 1. Dealers predict that the expected drop will not come. They think the worst effects of the depression have been felt, and that owners of property will not make sacrifices. The dealers expect a normal business this spring, with a falling-off, probably, only in the cheap lot market. It is not likely, it is said, that small home builders will be as numerous this year, and that fewer prospective builders will buy lots on the monthly payment plan.

I Cannot Spell the New Way.
I cannot spell the new way
As once I used to spell,
For when I try to simplify
I fail to do it well.

If Indigestion seizes me,
Brought on by pie or cake,
I can't explain the sudden pain
Is just a common ache.

I cannot spell the old words
To match the modern whim.
If I should slip and bruise my hip
I'd hate to write it lim.

And when a man is owing me
I would fill me with regret
To take my pen and ask him when He'll pay that little det.

I cannot spell the new way.
Let Brander Matthews beg.
I do not choose—I must refuse—
To drop a "g" from egg.

Perhaps I'm sadly out of date.
If so I can but sigh.
I cannot spell the new way.
I will not simplify.

CURRENT COMMENT

Stedman the Man.

Upon the death of Edmund Clarence Stedman, the poet, the New York Tribune, which gathered many of the richest fruits from his pen, printed this tribute:

What he did in the impersonal labors of a writer he did as a man in private life. He was an old Tribune man, and in these pages any tribute to his character would inevitably possess the note of peculiar understanding and appreciation. But we have reason to know that an extraordinary number of men and women everywhere must share in the gratitude and the grief felt by his intimate comrades. He had a genius for helping others, a genius which persisted even when he was well nigh overcome by his own burdens and sorrows. Admiration for Stedman's brilliant powers and his noble use of them follows him to the grave, and with it the love which is only yielded to a man as rich in qualities of heart as in intellectual force.

In London 200 barbers will have a contest to decide which can shave a man in the shortest time. Incidentally they can also test the courage of 200 London men.

It will be just like some "laggards in love" to say, "This is so sudden," when proposed to by young ladies they have been spooning around for about seven years.

If most of the older inhabitants are to be believed, the weather isn't managed nearly as well as it used to be when they were boys.

Some men will find fault with any kind of financial legislation that does not make it unnecessary for them to work for a living.

Mr. Stedman's reputation as the banker-poet will last all the longer because so few poets are known to have anything to do with banks.

The extent to which a prohibition law is being enforced can always be judged by the falling off in the demand for cloves.

The Unrest That Pervades American Life.

By Archbishop JOHN J. GLENNON of St. Louis.

IN one sense national unrest is altogether desirable. An individual that is completely at rest is DEAD. So with the NATION in which there is no evidence of activity. It may be said also that it is EITHER DEAD OR DYING.

BUT THERE IS ANOTHER MEANING OF THE WORD UNREST—WHEN IT IS A SYNONYM NOT FOR ACTIVITY, BUT RESTLESSNESS, A RESTLESSNESS THAT INDICATES, AS WITH A SICK PERSON, FEVER. SO THE QUESTION IS WHETHER THE UNREST IN AMERICA TODAY IS OF THIS LATTER KIND.

In the moral order there is one cause of unrest which STANDS OUT IN MY MIND BEFORE ALL OTHERS. It is the attitude of the public toward and the consequent rulings of the court in regard to the MARRIAGE BOND. The condition of restlessness and homelessness is fast becoming the fate of many of our people. When young they are trained to regard marriage as a LOTTERY. When married they are liable to regard it as a failure, and at no time does it stand before them as a HOLY UNION, BLESSED OF GOD, PERMANENT IN CHARACTER and set with the stability of a God given contract. So we find that many are the victims of this false education and have to their record BROKEN VOWS AND RUINED HOMES.

WITH SUCH A CONDITION EXISTING, THE ENTIRE SOCIAL BODY IS GRADUALLY SET INTO A CONDITION OF FEVERISHNESS AND UNREST.

Concerning the unrest from the commercial and social standpoint, I would mark as causes the ANARCHY OF RICHES AND THE ANARCHY OF POVERTY. By this I mean that at both ends of the line there is a lack of RESPONSIBILITY, HONESTY, CONSCIENCE OR LAW. The man who will print a paper and call it "stocks" and sell it for money, when there is nothing back of it except the paper it is written on is, of course, a CRIMINAL. The man who gathers in all the resources or modes of locomotion of a given community and proceeds to GRIND DOWN THE PEOPLE and squeeze from them their money is worse than a tyrant baron of old who levied money on the river bank from all the passing craft.

STORY ABOUT RURAL CARRIERS WHICH CARRIES A GOOD MORAL

A man with a weather-beaten face stood in front of the Rushville post-office during the cold weather and looked about as though in search of sympathy.

"Ain't those beauts?" and he suddenly thrust the fingers of his right hand beneath a fellow's nose. There was nothing particularly beautiful about the fingers. They were large and red and chapped and gave evidence of never having seen such by a person as a manicurist.

He continued, "I'm a rural route carrier, and my soul bubbles over with joy till I can taste joy in my sleep. Cause why am I happy? Cause I'm a rural carrier," and to prove his joy he gave vent to a laugh that resembled the chuckle of a hyena that had been disappointed in its dinner.

"It ain't such a bad life in a general sort of way," he continued, "but there is one thing that is exasperating me to the point of wrath, and that's the pennies in the rural mail boxes. It ain't fashionable for farmers to buy stamps and stick 'em on the letters they leave in their mail boxes for us to collect. They just leave the unstamped letters and some pennies to pay for the stamps. It surely ain't pleasant to haul your fingers out of a big mitten and then grope around with them in a cold mail box for some fool pennies. It's like stepping out of a warm bed on to a piece of cold oil cloth. An' then we have to lick the stamps when we buy 'em at the office to stick on those letters.

"Ain't those beauts?" and then suddenly rammed his fingers into a huge mitten and went away.

SO LONG MARY IS WHAT WE WILL SING

Miss Mary Neutzenhelzer is a Formidable Candidate for Trip Abroad

Talk about a candidate for congress stretching his political ropes for victory, none of them can measure up one, two, six with Miss Mary Neutzenhelzer, a plucky Rushville girl, who began on a "gum shoe" and "open and above board" campaign to be, one of the lucky members of the foreign touring party which the Indianapolis Star will send abroad.

Miss Neutzenhelzer began on a thorough canvass of the city today securing subscribers, promises to "save the coupons" for her. In addition to this she has already enlisted campaign managers in Connersville, Liberty, New Castle, Shelbyville, Greensburg and other seaports, who will have charge of a branch office under the title of "collectors of customs and coupons."

She will not conduct a speaking campaign, but in all probability it will be a successful one as she is an exceedingly popular young lady. Already she scents success and is studying a manual on "Hand Me a Lemon in Case of Sea Sickness."

When the good ship steams away it is going to be bon voyage and "So Long Mary" for the Rushville girl, so her friends say.

WOULD HAVE MADE BEST TEAM IN STATE HUSTLE

Is What Richmond Newspaper Says of Their Victory Over Rushville Lads

The Richmond high school basketball team, says the Richmond Item, defeated the Rushville high school quintet at the Garfield gymnasium in a fast even game Friday evening by a score of 33 to 19. The quintet from Rushville played hard and fast but the Quakers played in whirlwind fashion and their exhibition of team work clearly outdone that of their opponents and had them guessing at all the stages of the game. This is the last home game for the local high school team. They played in form that would have made the best high school team in the State hustle to keep pace.

FOURTEEN YEAR OLD GIRL MARRIES

Miss Mabel Cover Goes to Connersville Saturday Morning and Returns a Bride

"They have been going together for several years," said the friends of Miss Mabel Cover and Earl H. Sherwood, in speaking of their marriage today. Going together several years. It seems almost incredible. The girl is just fourteen years of age and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cover, of West Second street, and the groom resides in the Falmouth neighborhood, where they will live in the future on a farm.

They obtained the marriage license in Connersville Saturday morning and were married by Rev. Preston Cates in his office of Justice of the Peace.

There were no parental objections on either side.

SERIES OF REVIVAL MEETINGS CLOSE

Evangelist Willis Had a Fitting Finale to His Two Weeks Revival Here

Evangelist Willis closed a most successful two weeks' revival meeting at the First Presbyterian church last night, figuratively in a blaze of glory. His discourse last night is pronounced one of the best of the series and the final admonition he gave his auditors and a verse from the Scriptures which he noted telling them to remember it as a souvenir of the meeting, touched the heart strings.

A neat sum was collected at the meetings yesterday and the purse presented to the evangelist at the close. Many people here will always have pleasant recollections of Mr. Willis and remember unto the end some of the striking epigrams he employed in his sermons which reached the bull's eye of truth and sank deep into the hearts, never to be erased.

REAL FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH.

Fresh Air, So Says Mrs. Hensley, Who Keeps Young by Outdoor Sleep.

Mrs. Almon Hensley of New Rochelle, formerly president of the New York City Mothers' club and a member of many other women's organizations in New York city, believes that in sleeping out of doors the year round she has discovered the fountain of youth. She is a busy literary worker, author of several volumes of prose and verse and admits being forty years of age.

"I don't think I look it, though," she adds, "and when I get to be sixty I don't expect to look a day older than now. The trouble with most of us is we don't breathe half enough for health. The finest air is wasted on individuals who don't know how to use it."

Mrs. Hensley for the last year and a half has slept on the veranda of her home in Hillcrest avenue, which is on the outskirts of New Rochelle and looks out upon a grove of pines.

Two sides of the veranda are enclosed by sliding glass doors, to be drawn in case of snow, sleet or rain. Otherwise Mrs. Hensley's bed, a swinging hammock, is exposed to the elements. For the necessary warmth she uses two German feather beds, one as a mattress and the other as a coverlet. Besides this, a couple of down comfortables and an army blanket are used, to be laid aside in case the weather is mild.

"Although I came from a family who individually weigh a great deal, I never let my weight get above 145 pounds," Mrs. Hensley says, "and any woman by following my directions can reduce her weight from fifteen to twenty pounds in six weeks. Moderation in eating is of course essential, and exercise is valuable, but the deep breathing and out of door sleeping are the two most important factors."

HIS COURTSHIP

By HELEN R. MARTIN,
Author of "Tillie: A Mennonite Maid."

Copyright, 1907, By McClure, Phillips & Company.

"Eunice!" cried Daisy when still a few yards distant. "Do you know where Pete is? I want to hire him to take us for a drive."

Eunice's heart beat thick in her breast. To see these pretty girls, their fair bodies daintily clad, their white hands bearing no ugly marks of rough work, their care free spirits bright with happiness—to look on and see them drive off into the summer twilight with him—she could not bear that this evening!

"Where is he?" repeated Daisy. "I'm going to find him if I have to search all over the farm. It's such a dandy evening for a drive!"

"Did you look up in the north cornfield?" Eunice asked, not glancing up.

"Way up in that north cornfield?" cried Daisy in consternation.

"You are sure he is there, Eunice?" asked Georgiana.

"It would be well for you to look there," the girl steadily replied.

"What proof can you offer that he's there, Eunice?" demanded Daisy. "I don't want to chase up there for nothing."

"If you have looked every place else, that's the only place he can be."

"That seems reasonable," Daisy granted. "Is he mowing corn up there tonight?"

"No," Eunice was able to answer truthfully.

"Then what is he doing?"

"He may possibly be looking to see how the corn is coming on, but," she hastily added, "I can't prove it."

"Well," sighed Daisy, "come on, George. We'll have to skate if we're going to get a drive tonight."

They went away, and Eunice was left alone to face her own chaotic thoughts. She leaned her elbows on the fence and pressed her palms against her burning cheeks to cool them. The sunset, palpitating and rich with color, seemed to her as she gazed out over the fields to the crimson horizon to mirror her own warm passionate heart.

She had lied to these young ladies! Not in actual words, but the impression she had given was false. Why had she done it? What good could it do her? And suppose he knew! A wave of shame enveloped her. The hands supporting her cheeks covered her eyes as though to shut out from her sight the disgraceful self she beheld. Could she ever look at him again after this?

"What led you to think I was up in the north cornfield?"

Out of the stillness and dimness of the evening a voice beside her asked the question—his voice.

She did not uncover her eyes, she did not move. He was there beside her! He had overheard her telling those girls to look for him in that impossible north cornfield, a quarter of a mile away! He had been standing, no doubt, just within the spring house and had heard her utter those lies. He had surely recognized that they were lies, though her spoken words had not been literally untrue.

"I didn't tell them you were there," she faintly answered.

"Why, you sent them up there to find me, didn't you?" he asked, his tone puzzled.

"Yes," she confessed like a guilty child.

"Well, didn't you think I was there?"

"You didn't? Then why in thunder did you make them think I was?"

"Because—that's where I knew you wouldn't be." The words seemed dragged from her against her will.

He appeared to puzzle over it a bit. What he really was thinking was that perhaps he had now stumbled upon the solution of the mystery of this maiden. To offer as an explanation of her having sent those girls to look for him in the north cornfield that she knew that's where he wouldn't be—evidently she was not quite right in her mind.

But another idea occurred to him. "Ah!" he said. "You wanted to give them a false scent, knowing that I prefer to keep to myself?"

It was a beautiful explanation. For a moment she half believed that was why she had sent them to the north cornfield—to protect him from their unwelcome society. Anyway, it was infinitely comforting to have him think so, instead of knowing her real reason. What was her real reason? She could not have defined it, even to herself.

He seemed waiting to hear her confirm or deny his surmise. But she did not speak.

"It was very kind of you," he presently added, "to want to oblige me."

Her face burned hotter. She had an impulse to turn to him and undeceive him—to tell him the disgraceful truth. But what was the truth? Why had she wished to keep him away from the two girls?

It was her entire ignorance of life that made it so impossible for her to understand her own quite primitive emotions.

"It was clever of you, too," he chuckled. "The north cornfield! I'd be just as likely to be at the north pole, wouldn't I?"

Kinross was, in fact, gratuitously assuming that she had wished to return his favor to her in having averted her foster father's wrath upon finding her with the forbidden newspaper.

Eunice was conscious of the fact that, while in her heart she felt ashamed of what she had done, she was throbbing with joy at having done it, for was he not here alone with her in the summer evening? She exulted madly in her guilt.

"I would never have dreamed you capable, little Eunice, of such subtlety," he went on, and she could feel the amusement in his voice. "To think of those two poor girls scouring that cornfield in search of me! And you look so harmless!"

He gave a short laugh as he put his pipe to his lips.

"Was he really so glad, she wondered, at having escaped them? The thought was followed by an apprehension which clouded her joy of the moment. If he was so fond of being alone, her own presence here must annoy him, but he had come to her. She had not intruded upon him.

"I must go indoors now," she suddenly said, her low sweet voice scarcely above a whisper, as she drew back from the fence.

"Must you? What for?" he asked, and her hungry heart felt or imagined a note of regret in his tone.

"I don't have to—if it doesn't annoy you for me to be here."

Again to Kinross' ear that something in her speech so unlike that of the rest of the family! So arrested was he by it that for an instant he did not answer her question. His silence was answer enough for her, and again she quickly stepped away from the fence.

"No!" he abruptly stopped her—"you don't annoy me."

He was struck with the absurdity of his telling a young woman that her society did not annoy him. He saw

In the dimness how her face lighted up at his words, and a quick compassion stirred him.

"Poor, lonely child!" he thought. But in the same instant he realized that her sudden radiance was clouded over by her habitual pensiveness.

"I'm not important enough to," came her response in a low, sorrowful voice. "Am I?"

He turned and looked at her. "Now, Eunice," he asked after an instant's weighing of it, "just what do you mean by that?"

"A kitten or a poodle would annoy you more than I, so you don't feel obliged to dodge about to be rid of me as you do of others—who are more important."

Hello! She had found her voice; she was become articulate! Was that a note of bitterness he caught in her words?

"I will go indoors now," she repeated, with a melancholy dignity, as again she drew back from the fence.

He had an impulse to urge her to stay. There was an undefined impression in his mind that he wanted to question her about herself. But both the impulse and the impression were too vague to urge to prompt action, and before he could clarify them she was gone.

Eunice meantime, as she sped across the orchard, was already regretting passionately that she had left him. If she did not annoy him was not that enough for her to expect? Why had she not remained to drink in at least the happiness of being near him? And what did it matter if to him her existence was as that of a fly?

"He was speaking to me—to me—and I came away!"

She stopped short in her quick walk and half turned to go back. Her eyes fell upon two figures just coming into the orchard and walking toward the spring house. They were the young ladies, and they had spied Pete where he still stood by the fence. Daisy's rippling, shallow laughter flared to her on the quiet evening air. She stood still and watched. Would Dr. Kinross go away when he heard them coming? Yes, he was moving off, though escape was not very easy. She heard Daisy call out to him to stop him. She saw him hesitate, then turn back and wait. Daisy ran up to him and caught hold of his shirt sleeve. Georgiana followed with slow, stately grace.

Presently the three of them went across the orchard together toward the lane that led to the hill. Were they going to climb the hill together? The sunset view from there was very fine. It was the one spot in all the region that was dear to her, because here, in solitude, she had known some hours of peace and even of happiness, and the place had come to seem to her very own. And now those girls were going there with him—to her hill.

She shrank back into the shadow of some trees as they came near enough to see her.

"It's a good deal of a climb," she heard Dr. Kinross say in a tone of warning.

"I'm game!" Daisy declared. And then they moved out of her hearing.

She watched them as they emerged into the road and went up the lane until they disappeared around a bend at the foot of the hill.

Her bosom rose and fell in a long deep breath as at last she turned away and slowly, with her head wearily drooping, walked through the garden to the kitchen porch and went into the house.

ARDENT LEAP YEAR WOOR.

Girl Offers Happiness in Full Weight and Generous Measure.

The first feminine proposal of marriage under the license which leap year allows has been received by O. B. Warren, a young clerk of York, Pa. He is holding it under consideration. The letter which he received from an admiring young woman at Manchester, Pa., reads:

Dear Sir—Having seen you several times and having heard that you were unmarried, I have taken the opportunity that leap year offers to girls to ask for your hand. I want to make you happy, to bring sunshine into your lonely life, also add unceasing pleasure to my own. Now, I sincerely hope you will not treat this as a mere joke, but take pity on us girls, who are just as lonely as yourself. I am positive that I can make you quite happy, also hope that you will not be so selfish as to refuse my proposal. Awaiting an early reply, I remain impatiently, MISS

Mr. Warren gallantly refuses to reveal the name of his fair petitioner.

AMUSEMENTS

There will be a private skating party at the Kramer rink tonight by the Catholic young people. No skating Tuesday night but beginning Wednesday afternoon there will be skating every afternoon and night the rest of the week.

Undoubtedly one of the best pictures ever made by Pathe Bros., "Jealousy," will be shown at the Vaudet tonight and tomorrow night. A husband who is jealous of his wife leaves her and every couple he sees on the street he imagines to be his wife with another man. He falls asleep and in his dreams he sees his wife and strangles her to death; he is taken to justice and when about to be beheaded awakens and on returning home is overjoyed to find his wife alive and well.

There is another picture in this program, "Unlucky Old Flirt," where an old gentleman flirts with every woman he sees and gets into no end of trouble. This is an excellent picture but the management of the Vaudet waits no one to fail to see the first picture mentioned.

FISH IN YOUR CAKE OF ICE.

Curious New Kind of Natural Cold Storage in Minneapolis.

Next summer the people of Minneapolis will be able to go to their refrigerators, get a live fish and cook him while he wiggles.

This desirable condition of affairs has come about by the finding of a pond near the river in which the ice is full of the finest kind of edible fish. The pond was formed by the overflow of the Missouri river last spring, and when the water receded a small sand bar kept thousands of fish imprisoned, says the Minneapolis Tribune. The silt of the river has settled to the bottom of the pond and purified the water as a filter would do, so the ice is the finest in the world and is solid and clear as crystal to the bottom.

The discovery of this fish ice was made by Minneapolis ice men when putting up their summer supply. Some of the fish were broken out of the ice and after they had been in the sun a few moments began to wiggle and when placed in water swam around as though they had never been frozen.

This phenomenon suggested an idea to the ice men, and they already have several hundred tons of fish ice stored in their houses and will sell it the coming summer at an advance over the price of ordinary ice because of the food supplies it carries.

The fish thus captured vary in size from six inches to two feet and include buffalo, catfish, bullheads, carp, suckers and other varieties indigenous to the river. There are thousands of them, and nearly every cake of ice has several fish in it.

The find has been a boon to the poorer classes of Minneapolis, as many of them have laid in all the ice they can stow away, and others have cut out the fish and are selling them about town. Cakes of the ice with the inclosed fish are displayed in the market windows and attract a great deal of attention.

A Play in Esperanto.

Esperantists are in high glee. After a severe struggle against public sentiment these advocates of a universal language have scored a higher mark of success than was ever gained by any previous school of pan-lingualism, says the Washington Star. One of the foremost Anglo-American theatrical managers has announced his intention to present in Berlin next August a performance of one of his latest successes in Esperanto. The translation is now being made, and the leading performers are in training to acquire the vocabulary and accent. Esperantists, who are numerous in Berlin, are highly elated over the proclamation, which they regard as marking the turning point in the tide.

Biggest Schooner Afloat.

Bath, Me., will soon have the honor of sending overboard the biggest schooner afloat. It will be the six master now building at a Bath yard for a Portland company. The Thomas W. Lawson was the largest afloat, but her recent loss will make the one now building stand at the head of vessels of the schooner rig.

UPLIFT FOR FARMING

University of Chicago to Instruct on Scientific Lines.

STUDENTS WILL BE PAID.

Ten Gentlemen Agriculturists and the University Have Co-operated to Teach Pupils—Specializing and Raising Standard of Products Are Objects Promoters Have in View.

The University of Chicago and ten gentlemen farmers of the community have joined in an agricultural uplift. Between the two interests strong young men with an honest intention and well browned hands are to be paid to study scientific farming.

It is to be a guild rather than a college or school of agriculture, says the Chicago Post. The gentlemen farmers will furnish the students with work and means of sustenance; the university will give them incidental technical and scientific instruction.

A pale student look and a nose peeled from overmuch looking in the pots and kettles of a university laboratory in the quest of a degree will not be so much of a recommendation in the application for entrance as an honest if rough appearance, along with an ability to read ordinary everyday English and write it with only a little less ease.

The young men seeking agricultural knowledge will be stationed at the farms of the ten patrons of the guild under the guidance of an experienced manager who knows fields and their products, animals and their ways, from the practical as well as the scientific standpoint.

For the work they do they will receive $25 a month the first year, $30 the second and $35 during the final season. Out of this—the salary of a good farm hand in these prosperous days—they give $5 a month for their tuition and $5 a month toward a fund which is returned to them when they are graduated. If the student keeps up his course for three years, he will have a bonus of $200.

This will carry him over the period of work seeking. The founders of the guild believe that he will not have to look long or far. They think he will be worth at least $2,000 a year as a farm manager within the Chicago suburban radius.

The farm owners in the guild are Arthur Meeker, general manager of Armour & Co.; R. R. Hammond of the Dering Coal company; Samuel Insull, president of the Chicago Edison company; Professor F. L. Lillie of the University of Chicago; H. S. Keeley, traffic manager of the Milwaukee railway; H. S. Hart, president of the National Dump Car company; H. L. Miller, president of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad; J. K. Dering, president of the Dering Coal company, and Benjamin Johnson, agriculturist and stock raiser. The head of the school or guild for the university will be Professor William Hill.

Already twenty students in the agricultural schools of the Universities of Wisconsin and Illinois have asked for enrollment. The guild will be able to take 100 students, the work to begin about April of this year.

Professor Hill says the intention of the guild is to raise the standard of farm products, form a marketing association to cater to the fancy trade and send intelligent, well trained young men to the country. Owners of specialized farms will find men capable of taking charge of their places.

The farms of the members of the guild all are in the vicinity of Chicago—most of them near Lake Forest, Lake Bluff and Barrington. All are specialized along various lines. Students will work on them in rotation so as to gain an all around knowledge or if studying along a certain line will be allowed to remain on the farm best fitted to the purpose.

The practical work of the students will be divided into two classes—field and laboratory work and campus work. Many of the courses will be given in the university halls, but most of the instruction will be given on the farms. Small dormitories will be built on several of the farms if the number of students is large enough. Regular tuition fees of $40 for a three months' term will be charged the students.

PATRIOTISM OF AN INVENTOR.

J. F. Scott Declares His Aeroplane Is For America Alone.

WILL NOT AID FOREIGNERS.

Chicago Man Who Captured Contract For Aerial War Craft From Government Didn't Care For Reward—Believes United States Will Reach Greatest Heights In Civilization.

James F. Scott of Chicago, to whom the government has awarded a $10,000 contract for an aeroplane, says that within five years the development of flying apparatus will have gone so far that aeroplane ships carrying crews of twenty to thirty men will be making regular flights of 2,000 miles at a clip. He looks for progress to be made similar to that with the automobile, which has reached its present state of perfection within a decade.

Mr. Scott is a scenic artist forty-five years old. He has made at least a dozen working models, and the apparatus to be built for the war department is to consist of two main perfectly horizontal planes, with several smaller intermediary planes, the whole weighing 1,500 pounds. The maximum surface of the planes will be 4,000 square feet, and the machine will carry two men.

Mr. Scott is intensely interested in the subject of aerial navigation, has decided ideas as to how a patriotic American's knowledge and studies and investigations in any line of scientific endeavor should be used freely and unreservedly for the use of his government and for the advantage of no other and is firmly convinced that the need for all naval strength will be entirely done away with when aerial navigation by aeroplanes shall have been perfected. The possibility of building a fleet of air craft which can destroy the mightiest leviathan of the sea by dropping explosives he regards as sure in time not only to revolutionize all warfare, but absolutely to do away with it.

"I was born in Clinton, Ia., forty-five years ago," said Mr. Scott as he sat in his modest home, 673 South Rockwell street, Chicago, and talked to the New York Herald representative. "At fifteen I was determined to see something of the world, and I came to Chicago, which has been my home, though with frequent breaks, ever since.

"As a young man I was attracted to art, and I did a good deal of portrait painting. I also decorated the interiors of many fine Chicago residences.

"No, I never have attempted to exhibit. I left that for other artists. I know a large number of artists in all fields, whether of portrait work or in commercial lines. Later in life I took up scenic painting, and the work upon theatrical scenery has taken me to many parts of the country.

"But all these years I have devoted most of my time to my aeroplanes. I have made money in scenic painting, but it has been a means to the end that I might use the money so earned in supporting my wife and two children and myself while I devoted my thought to aerial navigation.

"My son Robert, who is fifteen, has a naturally inventive, mechanical mind. I bought him a motor cycle recently, and it wasn't a day before he had the machine all apart. 'I must see what is in it, father,' he told me, and he has been of very material assistance to me in my experiments. Often I have been perplexed with a certain problem, and he has come in and apparently intuitively divined how it should be solved, and his solutions have in a large number of cases proved absolutely sound.

"The reason I wrote the government authorities that my invention would be at their service for $10,000 unreservedly is that I believe all patriotic Americans should devote their efforts to the welfare of their government provided their lines of endeavor lie along lines like mine and that a prohibitive price should not be put upon their work. I have the greatest faith in the idea that the United States is the country which is destined to reach the greatest heights in civilization, holding up the beacon for other peoples, and I believe every true American patriot should further this advance with all the earnestness that in him lies."

To emphasize his patriotic motives Mr. Scott said in the course of the interview: "If the representative of any foreign power—England, France, Germany or other nation—came to me and told me that $1,000,000 lay in a bank subject to my check provided I would turn over to him even the diagrams of my aeroplane I would refuse such offer. No amount of money could persuade me to sell my invention to a foreign power.

"I ask for no aggrandizement or the plaudits of the multitude. I only hope to earn a fellowship in the ranks of those whose only aim is to do good. 'By their works ye shall know them.' I do not even ask to be given credit for good intentions. I have devised an aerial war craft that in the hands of a great and good people can be used to abolish forever the black reproach to humanity—war. The butchery, the legal murder of the brave and beautiful flower of the nations, sacrificed to lust for power, for greed and for all that is basest in human thoughts, must cease.

"I never have sought publicity in my work. I have not joined the Chicago Aeronautique club because I have preferred to keep the work to myself. The prize I am sure of receiving from the government will help some, of course; but, as a matter of fact, I didn't care whether I received it or not, for I am willing to give my services along these lines to the government.

"My first flights were made in the years 1893 and 1894 at Laverne, a suburb of Chicago on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. My flights then and all I have made subsequently have been to test my models and for the purpose of experimentation. The longest flight I made then was about 200 yards and the greatest height about thirty feet from the ground. I never attempted to soar higher, for I have had an idea that if I should fall it would damp my ardor. But I never have had an accident.

"I have continued my experiments with various models, many of which I still have in more or less complete shape. In various towns in Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Indiana and Ohio. The last flight made in one of my machines took place near Shelbyville, Ind., three years ago. My assistant manned the car, and several short flights of 200 yards and less were negotiated with success with and against the wind and across it.

"Now, although many people who have not studied the matter may scoff, I venture to predict that within five years there will be constructed aeroplane ships to carry crews of twenty to thirty men, having engines of from 600 to 1,000 horsepower and capable of a flight of 2,000 miles at a clip.

"The ship which I am building according to the specifications furnished the government will stay in the air one hour, will make its ascents and descents without danger and will carry two men. My experiments have proved to me that the planes above and below must be perfectly flat, and there will be no curves or concavity in them. During the hour that it remains in the air my ship will maintain its equilibrium, be under perfect control and move in all directions, as required by the specifications provided by the government.

nal corps. The weight of the generator will be 400 pounds, and it will be a craft of 100 horsepower.

"As compared with the aeroplanes of the near future the craft so far made are as dugouts to the modern ocean liner. I have the greatest respect and consideration for all the efforts that have been made by M. Henry Farman, the Wright brothers, Israel Ludlow, Santos-Dumont, Herring, Professor Langley, Lillienthal, Octave Chanute and all the others. I have studied their craft and have read, I think, nearly all that has been written about them."

Radium Bathing.

The Australian minister of agriculture has decided to create a radium bathing institution at Joachimsthal in order to utilize radium water for therapeutic purposes. Proposals have already been made to the government by the Carlsbad municipality and, says a contemporary, by an English syndicate for the organization of radium baths, but the minister of agriculture has determined to retain control of the undertaking.

Stamps For Darkest Africa.

Canceled stamps are being used by missionaries in various ways in their work. Mrs. De Witt of Newfane, Vt., has lately sent 2,000, mostly two cent stamps, collected by the Christian Endeavor, to a minister in New Jersey, and reply has come that they have been sent to Africa, where they will be used as rewards for learning Bible verses.

If You Get a Wireless From Your Tooth

remember Nyal's Toothache Plugs stop toothache instantly, also obviate it by filling the cavities, excluding food, etc., which accumulates, decomposes, forms an acid and facilitates decay. They temporarily FILL and PRESERVE the teeth prior to the insertion of permanent fillings. Can be inserted with toothpick and remove when desired, but unlike so-called toothache gums and waxes, they do not melt, come out, mix with the food and upset stomach. Superior as a toothache remedy—no burn, no blister.

STORK'S FEATHERS ARE FALLING HERE

When the stork is about to pay his respects to the palace of a King or potentate or the home of a President or Governor, the newspapers are privileged to make a note of it with all due propriety. If it was the home of a poor man or peasant it would be considered a delicate matter to chronicle. We can "almost" make mention of the stork's destination in Rushville, in line with the precedent noted above, but—

Mason Maxey, 836 W. Third Street, Rushville, Ind., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at F. B. Johnson & Company's drug store did me more good than any remedy I ever used I had been subject to bladder trouble for years. It had become chronic and I despaired of ever getting any relief. The kidney secretions were irregular too frequent and were accompanied by pain. Finally I thought I would try Doan's Kidney Pills, as they were highly recommended for such complaints, and went to F. B. Johnson & Company's drug store for them. They relieved me promptly of the trouble and I believe that a continued use of the remedy will completely cure me."
